THE STAG DO COMMANDMENTS

Without law and order, without rules and structure, without proper guidance and boundaries in place then the world soon falls into chaos and disharmony, a land of anger, riots, carefree whimsy and poetry where anything goes. Without clear rules we might as well all be French!

And a stag do is no different, so here are THE rules of the stag. Should any stag stray from the straight and narrow then let the punishment fit the crime.

#1

The first rule of the stag do is you do not talk about the stag do.

#2

The second rule of the stag do is; you do not talk about the stag do! Except when you're organising it or are re-telling the embarrassing story of how (X) ended up in (X) with the (X) stuck on his (X).

#3

Unless explicitly agreed upon by all present, under no circumstance should any stag take a photo. Any stag who breaks this should have his embarrassing baby, teenage, fashion fail photos nailed to every tree in town upon your return.

#4

What happens on the stag do stays off Facebook.

Even adding photos into your stag group Facebook page can be a risky business, something that was harmless fun at the time can result in serious relationship strife when viewed out of context.

#5

Challenges/dares can and will be handed out. Failure to rise to the occasion could lead to a stag not only being regarded as “a bit of a girl” but could also see him paying a forfeit.

#6

Going on a stag do is about all the stag do. Any outside influences such as work, kids, mortgages and life can and should be left at the door. They will still be there when you get back but this weekend, suit up and have fun.

#7

Keep the main thing, the main thing. This weekend is about the main man, NOT an excuse for single stags to chase local ladies in an attempt to bump uglies with any poor girl drunk enough to entertain him.

#8

We're not the Marines, any stag who gets so insensible that he requires carrying and/or hospital treatment can and will be left behind... after having his eyebrows and other extremities shaved/waxed.

#9

Any man who cannot pack all his shaving kit and hair products into a single bag is actually a girl and will be sent to join the hen party.

#10

Mirror Tax in operation. Looking good should never hamper a good time, therefore except in your hotel rooms any stag caught looking at himself in any mirror or reflective surface will instantly be charged a £1 Prima Donna fee which shall be added to the stag kitty.
